WOMAN HAS NOT ABANDONED HOPE

Retains Lawyers to Fight for Mercy for Her.

ON THE VERGE OF COLLAPSE

Mrs. Sweetin Ascribes Her Crime to "Some Sort of Influence" the Preacher Had Over Her--Sermon of Hight at Sweetin Funeral Recalled by His Parishioners--Day's Developments.

Mt. Sterling, Ill., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, who poisoned her husband for the love of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, declared in the jail at Salem that Rev. Lawrence Hight, her pastor, told her to commit the crime and gave her the poison.

Mrs. Sweetin is on the verge of a physical breakdown in her cell. Her physician, Dr. S. J. Thompson of Mt. Vernon, who cared for her husband when he was dying of the poison she had administered at the instigation of the circuit rider, refuses to permit her to see any outsiders.

Mrs. Sweetin ascribes her crime to "some sort of influence" the pastor had over her, which, she says, rendered her insensible to the enormity of his scheme that she poison her husband and he poison his wife, so that he could marry her. "I love Hight," she said, "but his meanness has wrecked our lives."

Mrs. Sweetin has not lost hope, however, and has retained lawyers to fight for mercy for her. Her accomplice declares that he has no thought of getting a lawyer; and that he will throw himself on the mercy of the court.

New stories of the relations between Hight and Mrs. Sweetin have come into the open. The pastor, during his feverish three months' love affair, culminating in the murder of Elsie Sweetin's hard-working coal miner husband and the pastor's wife, purchased the milk for his household from the Sweetins. But the peculiar detail is that instead of sending his 14-year-old son or his 14-year-old daughter for it, the pastor always made the trip himself, neighbors said.

The sermon of Rev. Hight at the funeral of Mr. Sweetin, killed by poison which the pastor gave the woman, is vividly recalled. Using as his text the verse in the Book of St. John: "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God; believe ye also in Me; in My Father's house are many mansions," the pastor preached a powerful sermon that moved his audience to tears. "I didn't want to come to this pulpit to preach, but now I see the Lord has reason for sending me here. It was to convert the good man who now is resting under His beneficent smile."

ON SOCIALIST BALLOT

Senator La Follette's Name Will Appear in California.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The name of Senator La Follette, head of the independent ticket, will appear on the Socialist ballot in California, Congressman John Nelson, in charge of La Follette-Wheeler headquarters, announced on receipt of word from California that the California supreme court had ruled against permitting La Follette's name to go on the ballot as an independent.

"The effort of the predatory interests to rob La Follette of California will not succeed," Nelson declared. "Every report from California shows the mounting tide of support for him. Now the courts try to stem that tide. La Follette desired to run as an independent, but the action of the California supreme court will force him to go on the Socialist ballot in that state with the same electors."

SHOTS EXCHANGED

Two Dry Agents, Charged With Drunkenness, Roughly Handled.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—Two dry agents, arrested on a charge of intoxication, were roughly handled by a crowd here. Aroused by someone prying at his bedroom window, Richard Fletcher fired six shots at two men, who ran to hide themselves in a clump of shrubbery. The shots missed and one of the men in the bush is said to have returned the fire. Neighbors, awakened by the shooting, rushed out of their homes and attacked the two men, who gave their names as Edward T. Ayers, 26, and Arthur W. Gibbons, 30. They said they were dry agents, working out of the court of Justice Stanton Addams. They explained that they were searching for bootleggers.

IN OPEN MARKET

Sale of Prison-Made Brick Enjoined by State Court.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Common Pleas Judge Rodgers here granted an injunction preventing the state from selling brick manufactured by prison labor at the Junction City brick plant in the open market. The restraining order was granted to Attorney L. C. Barker against Director of Public Welfare Harper. Barker charged that bricks manufactured in the Junction City plant have been sold to jobbers, who in turn distribute them throughout the state at prices much below the regular market price because the state pays its prison labor nothing. The state bricks were being sold at about half price, it is charged. The sale of the brick is alleged to have been carried on under the surface. Several buildings in Columbus have been erected of material supplied by the state-owned plant, and it was the discovery that state brick was being used on one of these that led to the action. A further investigation into the sales is being conducted.

W. C. T. U. Elects.

Cincinnati, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Florence D. Richards of Columbus was re-elected president of the Ohio State Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the business session of the golden jubilee convention of the organization here. Mrs. Viola D. Romans of Columbus was again chosen vice president of the body.

COMMITTEE NOT LIKELY TO MEET

Ashurst Declines to Issue Call to Members.

IS CAMPAIGNING FOR DAVIS

Wheeler Also Busy in the Northwest and Would Be Unable to Attend. Brookhart, Another Member, Still at Camp Perry--Means' Alleged Repudiation of Testimony Not to Be Probed.

Washington, Sept. 26.—A meeting of the senate Daugherty committee is not likely to be called.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst (Dem., Ariz.), member of the committee, announced that under no circumstances would he call a meeting of the committee to inquire into Gaston B. Means' repudiation of his testimony.

Ashurst said he would attend a committee meeting if Senator Brookhart, chairman, called it "within five hours." Otherwise, Ashurst said, he was going to resume his speaking tour in behalf of John W. Davis. Ashurst previously has indicated that he is anxious to take the stump in behalf of Davis and this is regarded as the primary reason for his refusal to call the probers back into session.

Inasmuch as Senator Wheeler, the committee "prosecutor," is actively campaigning in the northwest and would be unable to attend, Ashurst believes it is inadvisable to attempt to resume the hearing. Senator Brookhart, another member of the committee, is at Camp Perry, O., acting as instructor for the Ohio national guard.

Means has said that he has "valuable information to place at the disposal of the committee, indicating in a veiled way that he had 'trapped' Harry M. Daugherty and others in the repudiation."

Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Rep., Iowa) has sent a telegram from Camp Perry to President Coolidge protesting the appointment of what he terms the "outside-the-law" agricultural commission and demanding an immediate special session of congress to provide farm relief. "In the five years that we have had a similar commission there has been gathered a stack of data higher than you can reach," Brookhart's telegram said, "and yet nothing has been done for the farmer. Congress, not commissions, make our laws."

OPENING CANCELED

Ohio Republicans to Hold Meeting at Findlay Next Monday.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Owing to the death of Brigadier General C. E. Sawyer, life-long friend and personal physician to the late President Harding, the Republican state campaign committee has canceled their arrangement for a big meeting Saturday at Marion to officially open the state and national campaigns in Ohio. Decision to cancel the plans for the "opener" was reached at a conference of candidates for state offices. It was agreed that under the circumstances holding of the meeting at Marion at this time would hardly be fitting. The campaign, without an official opening, will get under way Monday, when a meeting is to be held at Findlay, with former Governor Davis as one of the principal speakers.

Secretary of State Hughes, who was to have been the principal speaker at the Marion meeting, will be brought into Ohio at a later date, according to Republican headquarters.

Big Crowd Hears Davis.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 26.—John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for president, declared in his address before a large assemblage here that it would be his ambition if elected president to give the American people a government "honest from top to bottom," in which laboring man, farmer and consumer would all feel they were being treated on an equal basis. He said he found the political outlook in the western states promising, and added that he had every expectation of triumph in the November election.

Attacks Court's Action.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Democratic state headquarters issued a formal statement severely criticizing California officials in barring the La Follette electors from the state ballot. Asserting that the Republican party "is willing to have the support of Harry M. Daugherty, Harry L. Davis and Harry Sinclair," the statement characterized the California action as "in keeping with the Coolidge campaign throughout the nation." It also charged that such "judicial trickery" promoted agitation against courts.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Boys Poisoned.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—Melvin Tremmer, 3, died at St. Luke's hospital before medical aid could be administered. Another boy, Daniel, an uncle of Melvin, was taken to the hospital a short time later in serious condition. Members of the family heard Melvin moaning in his bedroom. They found the boy lying on the floor beside his bed. In a few moments he was seized with convulsions. Other members of the family became ill after they had eaten some peaches. Ptomaine poisoning is suspected.

Alleged Burglar Killed.

Dayton, Sept. 26.—Detective Frank Heywood shot and killed Robert Meckling, 19, a burglar suspect, and arrested Walter Geeseman, Meckling's companion. The two are suspected of robbing several homes here in the last three nights. Meckling jumped from the second floor of his home and ran down an alley, Heywood opening fire.

Ohio State Finished Second.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—In the interstate dairy cattle judging contest held at the National Dairy Cattle congress at Waterloo, Iowa, the Ohio State university team finished second in a field of 12 teams. The Ohio team won first in a special class for Brown Swiss, second on Guernseys, third on Ayrshires and third on Jerseys.

To Increase Shop Force.

Gallipolis, O., Sept. 26.—The Kanawha and Michigan railroad shops at Hobson will resume operations with a full force of 600 men Oct. 1. Only 50 men have been at work in the shops for months. Increased output of West Virginia coal is responsible, it is said.

Set Fire to School.

Springfield, O., Sept. 26.—Edward Moore, 14, colored, confessed that he set fire to the Northern school here to get revenge for his demotion by the principal. Fast work by the fire department saved the building.

Airplane Made Nose Dive.

Toledo, Sept. 26.—Harry Kahl, 30, was killed and Art Bartlesbaugh, 30, was hurt, when a passenger airplane fell two miles east of Toledo. The plane made a nose dive when only a short distance off the ground.

Steeplejack's Fall.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—Louis Schaefer, 30, a steeplejack, fell 80 feet to the ground while painting a smoke-stack here. He was taken to a hospital where physicians said they could find no broken bones.

Back Broken.

Washington C. H., Sept. 26.—William Elliott, 42, farmer, suffered a broken back when he fell from a tree which he had climbed to obtain a crippled squirrel which he had shot.

Found Dead at His Home.

Bucyrus, O., Sept. 26.—Charles E. Stine, 58, cashier of the Farmers' and Citizens' bank of Crestline, was found dead at his home of heart disease.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 26.—A decision on the petition of Charles Dickson of San Antonio, contesting the eligibility of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Democratic nominee for governor, will be handed down Sept. 29. District Judge George Calhoun made this announcement at the close of a hearing, instituted by Dickson, for an injunction. Judge Calhoun took the case under advisement.

TICKET HEADED BY ROOSEVELT

New York Republican Convention Finishes Its Task.

ANTI-KLAN PLANK ADOPTED

Platform Also Pledges the Party in the Empire State to the Support of Coolidge and Dawes--Woman Nominated for Office of Secretary of State--Proceedings of the Convention.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was nominated on the first ballot for governor by the New York state Republican convention here.

After a prolonged struggle behind locked doors the platform committee voted to present a plank denouncing the Ku Klux Klan by name. The plank condemns "any organization, whether it be called the Ku Klux Klan or by any other name," which seeks to inject race and religion into politics. The convention adopted the platform by an overwhelming vote.

The remainder of the same ticket was nominated as follows: Lieutenant governor, Senator Lowman, Elmira; secretary of state, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Syracuse; comptroller, Vincent B. Murphy, Rochester; treasurer, Lewis H. Pounds, Brooklyn; attorney general, Albert Ottinger, New York; state engineer and surveyor, Royal G. Finch, Albany. Mrs. Knapp, the nominee for secretary of state, is the first woman to be a candidate for state office in New York on the Republican ticket.

The platform indorses the administration of President Coolidge and pledged the party in the state to the support of the Coolidge and Dawes ticket; assailed the Democratic administration of state affairs, characterizing it as inefficient, insincere and lax; declared for a 48-hour week for women in industry, and advocated the ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

GOVERNOR SMITH WILL RUN AGAIN

Choice of New York Democrats for Third Term.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Governor Alfred E. Smith will be nominated by the Democratic state convention today for a third term. Other state officials also will be renominated and a platform denouncing the Ku Klux Klan adopted.

The platform praises the Democratic state administration, calling attention to a long list of "constructive achievements" under Governor Smith, and declared that "an intelligent series of progressive measures," sponsored by the Democrats and advocated by the governor, had been defeated by "the unresponsive partisan-minded and machine-controlled assembly." The candidacies of Davis and Bryan are warmly indorsed.

Chairman Francis E. Cullen of Oswego attacked the Republican administration at Washington, accused President Coolidge of having placed the welfare of his party above that of the nation, and highly commended the administration of Governor Smith. He also made a vigorous attack upon the Ku Klux Klan, saying his party would be "false to its traditions" if it failed to condemn "this band of fantastic anarchists," which "dominates every cowardly political leader in the two principal parties." He said the party stood behind the anti-klan declaration of John W. Davis at Seagirt, New Jersey.

Navy Board Begins Survey.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The general board of the navy, which will survey relative importance of air craft, battleships and submarines, as ordered by President Coolidge, began its task, which will decide future naval policy. Several officers of the naval air service were called before the board. The report of Captain Walter Gherard on air craft participation in the Pacific fleet maneuvers, which was handed to President Coolidge by Secretary Wilbur, will become a part of the board record.

BUTTER PRICE TOO HIGH

Claim of Secretary of Ohio Dairy Products Association.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—According to W. A. Wentworth, secretary of the Ohio Dairy Products association, the retail price of butter in Ohio is inexorably high. With a national reserve 53,000,000 pounds greater than last year and wholesale prices much lower, Wentworth said that the retail price level had been maintained steadily. Butter is selling retail in Columbus for 42 to 55 cents a pound. Wholesale prices were down to 36 and 37 cents a pound, Wentworth said. "The retailer's profit on butter is much larger than necessary," Wentworth declared. "His profit is clear, too, for he suffers no loss. The manufacturer stands behind every pound. Besides he turns over his stock on an average of twice a week. There is no need of such a margin of profit. It is causing a hardship on the people and is stagnating the butter market."

Butter in storage this year totals 156,000,000 pounds. Last year there were 103,000,000 pounds in storage.

Coolidge Speaks.

Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—President Coolidge made the principal address at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the meeting of the first continental congress and the 200th anniversary of the founding of the Carpenter's company, in whose historic hall the congress met. Proposals for government ownership of railroads and other public utilities were denounced by President Coolidge as "uneconomic" and "encroachments upon our rights." Coolidge also renewed his assault on suggestions to limit the power of the supreme court and urged that the people resist encroachment upon their rights and liberties guaranteed by the constitution.

CONTRACTORS INDICTED

Theft Alleged in Connection With Disappearance of Property.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—The federal grand jury here indicted Myron G. Rose, Albert J. Phillips and Lawrence Williams, employees of Rose Brothers company, contractors, in connection with the disappearance of government property at Camp Sherman.

Rose, manager of the contractors' establishment at Camp Sherman; Phillips, superintendent, and Williams, labor foreman, were engaged in razing government buildings at the camp. They were arrested Aug. 29 and charged with conspiracy and theft in the disappearance of plumbing and bathroom fixtures and other government property. They waived preliminary hearing when arraigned before the United States commissioner at Chillicothe, and were bound over to the grand jury under bond of $1,000 on two counts each. L. H. Rose of Minneapolis, president of the firm, disclaims any knowledge of the alleged stolen property.

Children Attacked by Dog.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—Eleven children, said to have been bitten by the same dog, are undergoing the Pasteur treatment by direction of city health, after the dog had been killed.

Linked France and Scotland.
The small border, or treasure, which surrounds the arms of Scotland in the British coat of arms is the emblem of preservation or protection. A legend states that the border was given to Achaus, king of the Scots, by Charlemagne as a pledge that the French lilies should defend the Scottish lion. The significance of this lies in the design of the border, which is composed of fleur-de-lis.

Lone Village Lonesome.
Skiddaw is the not inappropriate name of a village in England that has only a single inhabitant. The lone village of Skiddaw complains because he cannot vote—there being no overseer to prepare the voters' list and no church or public building on which to "publish" one, as the law requires.

Reputation and Character.
Reputation is what men think you are, character is what you are. Both are important, but character is indispensable to success. Without character you are not likely to have a good reputation—very long.

Dress Ornaments in Fall Fashion

Single Motif Features Decoration of Majority of French Models.

Dress ornaments of new design are many, some unusual, and some very beautiful. The style is tuned to a single motif—a distinguishing note of a costume on almost all of the better models, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. On all of the draped gowns this is essential, and on the tunic blouse, done after the Chinese type of overgarment, slashed at each side, an ornament adds a chic effect. On many of the new wraps, the coats and capes for afternoon or evening, an ornate clasp, or cabochon is made to serve as a fastening.

One flashing ornament is a round flat medallion, formed of a little mirror bordered with a delicate fretwork of metal set with rhinestones. A clasp intended to be added to the coat is large and rich in color, of thin olive wood traced in a pattern of dull gilt. Many other motifs are being made from as many different materials, from Italian tooled leather and Egyptian scarabs to the most dazzling things set solid with stones. Some of these are huge, in the most fantastic patterns, and form an important detail in an evening gown.

The latest and most popular combination in ornaments is of onyx and brilliants. There is an elegance in it which appeals to women whose taste is for exclusive styles, and it is one which is not successfully imitated. A gown of black velvet or satin, which has somewhere in its architecture a bit of onyx traced over with diamonds or rhinestones, is never commonplace. Other delightful things like these are being shown in brooches, pendants and earrings—which are longer than ever before. One pair seen in the studio of an exclusive jeweler is made in the form of two long tassels, the diamond tips of which touch the shoulder—eagerly graceful and altogether chic. These jewels or onyx and pearl are but one of the unique fancies of the season. But they are of sufficient importance to form a chapter all their own.

Godets Used to Vary Straight Tunic Blouse

A few of the prominent designers are inclined to vary the uncompromisingly straight tunic blouse by introduced godets, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. These add nothing to the width of the garment proper, but create a flare at the bottom. Paquin is unaggressive in this variation, and the same tendency is shown in the first models seen from Yveb and from Martial et Armand. A prophecy now in the air looks for a return to the fashions of 1890 or thereabouts, when the gown was tight to the knee, and below that was clumsily trimmed with ruffles or platings. In earlier days nothing was heard of the silhouette, and the much-corseted figure presented an undulating line, in contrast to the "tube" of these days. But clever artists must be trusted to harmonize the new features and the revivals of old-time ideals.

So many new colors, or colors by other names, have been introduced during the last year that the possibilities of novelty would seem to be exhausted. But there are emphasized in the early fall styles such shades as burnt russet, caramel, rust, henna, basket green, tiber green and venetian green.

Variety in Fabrics

The wardrobe of today is vastly more interesting than it was some years ago. For one thing, instead of a few materials there are many, and fabrics have in many cases changed places and been put to uses hitherto undreamed of. The revival of flannel has been an outstanding point in the modes of the season. First only plain colored flannel was seen, but recently the gayest blazer striped flannel has appeared, and from all indications seems destined to play an important part in sports fashions.

KEEPING WELL

SCARLET FEVER

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

SCARLET FEVER is one of the few diseases which baffle the scientist. Efforts to ascertain its cause have been unsuccessful, although recent investigations and experiments give hope that we may soon have a specific treatment.

The germs which cause the disease are apparently present in the tonsils, the blood, the lymphatic glands, and on the mucous membrane of the mouth, nose and throat.

There is, at present, no cure for scarlet fever. Once it has attacked a person, there is no "curing" it. It will run its course. It is comparatively rare among grown people and children over ten years of age; among young children, however, it is highly contagious. It is widespread over the entire world but is more prevalent in temperate climates than in hot parts of the world.

Efforts to combat scarlet fever are handicapped because the cause of the disease is not known; because we have no direct method of controlling it; and because many mild cases are not recognized and consequently are not treated and quarantined as scarlet fever.

If your child suddenly feels tired and out of sorts, if he has a fever, a chill, or convulsions, or if he vomits, if the tongue is coated, if he complains of a sore throat, especially if these symptoms are followed by a rash, keep him away from other people and call your doctor. Then do as he directs in regard to quarantine, disinfection, and after care. He will tell you when it is safe to let your child again mingle with other children. Do as you would like to have other parents do. To keep your children well, you must help to keep other people's children well.

Young Ambition.

A brown-haired, bright-eyed newsboy, not more than nine years old, was in the midst of a heated argument with the news stand man when the Woman noticed them. The man couldn't understand just what the boy wanted, although he was explaining loudly in newsboy jargon that he was very definite about the matter. Presently the boy took the man by the arm and led him to his choice among all the magazines that were hung about the news box for display. The Woman wondered what it would be—Diamond Dick or Racy Stories. Without hesitation the boy pointed to his desired magazine. The Woman blinked and looked again. The cover under his small, slightly soiled index finger said, "What to Sell and How to Sell It."—Chicago Journal.

Brother and sister were parted for the first time, he going on a month's trip with their mother and father and she to spend the month with their grandparents. William's Bright Remark

By RALPH D. PAINE

(© by Doubleday, Page & Co.)

"I SOMETIMES wonder whether a beautiful young daughter is a blessing or a curse," groaned Mr. Henry Torrance as he dropped with a thud into the nearest chair. Aggrieved and horrified, the daughter exclaimed: "I never dreamed that a fond parent could say such a frightful thing as that. What kind of a break have I made to deserve it?"

"Ernestine, before you rave, let your father explain himself," chimed in her mother. "Sometimes his ideas are quite sensible."

Mr. Henry Torrance was a bald, nervous man whose shoulders were bowed from years of service at an office desk. A quizzical twinkle tempered his outbreak as he went on to say:

"It's not Ernestine's fault. It's those boys that come to see her. This one tonight was the limit. Not morally. He doesn't pack a flask on his hip as far as I know. But when he thinks he is starting to go home at the end of a perfect evening, his feet get glued to the floor. You know what I mean."

"Yes, dad, I get you," sighed the fair young Ernestine. "Ticky" Ballard is certainly shy a self-starter. He is dreadfully young, only seventeen, and he hasn't learned how to break away. Lots of nice boys are afflicted that way."

"Take tonight as a sample," grimly pursued Mr. Henry Torrance. "He quit fussing with that little Honolulu banjo dings at eleven o'clock. Mother and I, having mid-Victorian manners, drifted into the hall to say good-night. That boy got that far and stood for thirty-five minutes. Yes, he did. And then he pried his feet loose and stalled again in the porch for God knows how long. It was not your fascination, Ernestine, my child. He could see you were yawning your head off. And he was too sleepy to hold his own head up. He simply could not make the grade. What passes for his intellect got jammed."

"A very common disease, like mumps," said Mrs. Torrance. "Goodness, Henry, don't I remember you at that age? My father said he felt like spanking you."

"Um-m, he was a mighty, touchy unreasonable man in spots. Well, I stayed to the bitter end tonight, Ernestine, as an interested observer. Whew, but my legs ache."

"Here comes our own upstanding son," said the mother as a flivver rattled and coughed in the driveway. "Let's ask him if he has the same difficulty."

Presently young William entered the room, slipped on a rug, stumbled over a rocker, and dived for a sofa. He was too busy growing to be graceful.

Several days later William, the woman-bater, experienced a sudden change of heart. The cause was a fluffy little person who was visiting the Ballard girls. William announced, in aggressive tones, that he intended to run over after supper. Mr. Torrance displayed a lively interest and ventured to suggest:

"Take warning from the reluctant-footed 'Ticky' Ballard, son."

"Huh, I guess I won't make a holy show of myself."

"You never can tell, William. As man to man, take a tip from me. On your way over, try to think of a bright remark. Something snappy, with a sure-fire laugh. Then when you get ready to pick up your hat, shoot the bright remark and depart. Go out on it. Don't linger for an encore."

"That sounds good to me, dad, the best thing yet. The dickens of it is I may not find any bright one in the old bean."

"Oh, yes, you will, if you prepare yourself beforehand."

William was impressed. He was always serious when his father took this man-to-man attitude. In fresh flannel trousers, silken socks, hair slicked back, he spurred the flivver out of the driveway when the little stars were shining in the sky. The family adjusted itself for a quiet evening. Ernestine was alone, for once. Phonograph and piano were silent. She became absorbed in a novel with a kink to it.

No more than three quarters of an hour later they heard the flivver return. This was perplexing. In stalked William, glowering. He registered bitter dislike for his family. His father demanded:

"Here, William, what went wrong? Did she hurt your feelings or something?"

"Not her. One classy little Jane, I'll say so. Huh, it was you that spilled the beans."

"For heaven's sake, explain yourself, my son."

"Well, it was like this, understand? I did think up a bright remark and it was a corker. Well, I had been there a little while when I accidentally slipped the bright remark. It popped out before I could stop it. Huh, it was the only one I had. So I grabbed my hat and beat it. You said I must go out on it, didn't you? Well, I did, didn't I?"

The family was silent. Words failed them. The boy on the burning deck had nothing on William. Then Ernestine snickered but her father frowned at her.

"William," said he, "what was the bright remark?"

"Huh, forget it. Now see here, I've got some studying to do and I don't want to be interrupted. Good-night."

Pyrotol Adapted to Highway Work

New Explosive Suitable to Be Released to Farmers for Blasting Stumps.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One hundred million pounds of explosive, enough to load a freight train 10 miles long, is shortly to be made available to farmers for land clearing and to the states and federal government for road construction. This explosive, pyrotol, is to be distributed by the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture at the cost of preparation and shipment. This is a continuation of the work which has been carried on for the past three years whereby the vast supplies of explosives in the possession of the government at the close of the World war are being made over to make them suitable for constructive purposes. The distribution has already resulted in saving millions of dollars to the people of the United States.

Used for Open-Air Work.

Pyrotol is composed largely of ground smokeless powder, prepared by a process perfected by George R. Boyd of the bureau of public roads. It is peculiarly adapted for blasting stumps and for work of similar character. It can be used for all open-air work without causing headaches or other ill effects and will not stain the hands or clothing. It is a low-freezing explosive and can be used with good results at all ordinary temperatures. The cartridges are of the same size and shape as the ordinary dynamite cartridge. Each box contains 50 pounds, about 150 cartridges, and each cartridge is approximately equal in strength to a cartridge of 20 per cent dynamite. It is safe to handle, providing that the ordinary care exercised in handling dynamite or other explosive is used. It is detonated by the No. 6 caps commonly used with commercial dynamites.

Uses for Explosive.

The laws under which these explosives are made available authorize distribution to the state highway commissions for use in road building, and to farmers for land clearing. There is no charge for the explosive itself, but the consumer has to pay the cost of preparation and the freight charges. These charges are different in various sections of the country, but, in general, the cost is about half the cost of an equivalent amount of commercial explosives. In each state, where there is sufficient interest in agricultural explosive, some state agency, usually the state agricultural college, takes the orders of the individual farmers, pools them into car-load lots to decrease the freight charges and handles the details of the distribution. The Department of Agriculture cannot accept orders for pyrotol except through such state agencies.

Shipping points for the explosive will be Repauno, N. J., Barksdale, Wis., and DuPont, Wash.

It is probable that this pyrotol will be the last of the surplus war explosives to be distributed by the Department of Agriculture.

Maintaining Profits in Handling Chicken Flock

To maintain profits in the handling of poultry one must maintain the egg yield, says A. C. Smith, head of the poultry division of the Minnesota experiment station, University Farm, St. Paul.

Mr. Smith believes that the usual dwindling of profits in egg production in the warm weather is largely caused by lax methods, and that it is a mistake to discontinue feeding a good rich-laying mash during the summer season. He says it will not do to let flocks which are restricted to hard grain rations depend alone upon such insect life as they find on the range for their animal food. This is true because the essential egg-making materials are lacking in the feeds obtained and hens cannot manufacture eggs without the necessary raw materials.

Further, to maintain egg production in the summer Mr. Smith says that poultry houses should be well ventilated and kept as cool as possible by opening or removing windows, and if necessary by installing additional means of ventilation; that mites and lice should be destroyed and young and old stock kept separate.

Whatever you do, says Mr. Smith, feed regularly and feed liberally, putting into the mash more wheat by-products and more ground oats, and putting into the grain feed more wheat if wheat prices are not too high.

Protein Supplement Is Needed With Soft Corn

"It is surprising how well hogs handle soft, immature corn," say live stock authorities at Iowa state college. If best results are to be realized, however, the protein supplement must be increased. John Evard found that while the tankage required for 100 pounds gain with old corn was 20.8 pounds, with new corn it was 32.2 pounds. Less dry matter is required to produce 100 pounds of gain with new corn than with old.

The chief difference between soft and mature corn is the percentage of dry matter, a bushel of soft corn sometimes running as low as 28 pounds of dry matter per bushel while old corn, on a 10 per cent moisture basis, would contain 50.4 pounds.

There is a wide range in the moisture content of soft corn and calculations must be made carefully.

Point of Natural History.
Two small boys were awaiting their teacher on the sidewalk. One began to crawl on hands and knees, unmindful of clean white stockings, and was corrected by the other lad, but would not arise, as he said he was a lion. "Lion don't walk that way," said the second little fellow, "they walk on their feet."

MY TEMPLE

What kind of a house have I builded?
What style of a temple for God?
Is my handiwork proven and worthy,
Or careless, unstable and odd?
And wrought with the plummet of
Have I fashioned on patterns inspired
Time,
Or quite unconcerned in the planning,
Have builded as poets build rhyme?

What kind of a house is my temple?
O Master, gaze not on my shame,
The marble and gold Thou has shown me

I passed for the cheap woods of fame.
I doubted my strength at the quarries,
The hills seemed far, far away,
So I, like a fool, builded blindly
A temple to last but a day.

O Miracle-Worker of Ages,
Thou Light at Damascus to Paul,
Show me the way to refashion
My temple before it shall fall.
My will I surrender, I'll follow
Whatever Thy word shall demand;
Thou Builder of Temples eternal,
Forgive me the work of my hand.

STRAW VOTES

LaFollette is Developing Strength in Most Unexpected Places.

The Literary Digest's poll, up to the present, of the country is not comforting to either Democrats or Republicans. It shows Coolidge and Davis sadly lacking the electoral votes necessary for election. It indicates LaFollette strength in unexpected places. It is the wise man who looks facts in the face and acts accordingly.

The business men of the nation should be wise, they have had experience. But the existing situation calls to them for acute study and action. They should know—no matter what the determination of the matter that the projection of the presidential election into congress inevitably would create apprehension and invite such business depression as would be costly, perhaps widely disastrous, to both employers and the employed.

The possibilities of such an event, from any angle of consideration, must appear alarming to every conservative mind. What is to be done in the matter? What is business going to do about it? The farmer is a business man; what is he going to do about it? Will he listen to the political snake doctors and accept their weird panaceas, or will he remember that economics and politics have little real relation to each other?

The industrialist is a business man; will he risk the closing down of shops and mills, the withdrawal and seclusion of capital to give the experimental policies of La Follette a trial? These are things to think about. Do you want the election kept out of congress? If so, the present situation reasonably should indicate what should be done by the average thinking American. The situation is fraught with gravity. We may go forward in the enjoyment of reasonable prosperity, or be may accept the hazard of a situation which might spell irreparable disaster to the nation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HARTMAN THEATER

Douglas Fairbanks in the most amazing and spectacular screen production yet known to the world, "The Thief of Bagdad" comes to the Hartman theater, Columbus next Sunday night, September 28. So much has been written of the astonishing occurrences depicted in this picture that perhaps not enough has been written about the charmingly romantic love story of the Thief and the Princess. It is said that the famous Doug has never made love more aptly than in the scenes with the Princess, having first climbed up the magic rope to reach the harem and, chastened by love, reveals to her the fact that he is in reality an imposter. Julianne Johnston, who plays the princess, is one of the most beautiful leading women Mr. Fairbanks has ever played opposite in his long career as a screen star. She brings to the role added grace and charm, gained thru her experience as one of the famous Morgan dancers. Some of the outstanding features are the magic carpet on which the thief and the princess soar over the rooftops into the sky; the winged horse, mounted on which the thief dashes in to and thru the clouds; the miraculous seed which, when thrown on the ground, create a huge army from nothingness, the forest of enchanted trees and the cloak of invisibility, which the thief uses to cover himself and the princess so that they may escape the soldiers of the Mongol prince; and yet aside from all these wonders, which no one would heretofore have thought possible on the screen, there will be found the living dragon in the Marvelous Valley of Monsters, the Crystal Realm beneath the sea, the Flight of the Thousand Stairs and the astonishing Cavern of Fire. This picture will positively not be shown anywhere else in Columbus this year. When presented here, there will be offered all the atmospheric effects which marked the New York presentation at the Liberty theater, which will include a symphony orchestra, full scenic and stage effects, a band of Arabian musicians and a Mohammedan Prayer Man. Mail orders given prompt attention. Matinee daily.

Dog Has Bank Account; Makes Own Deposit

Chicago.—Blm Elbert, an aristocratic bulldog, earns his own cash and deposits it in the bank as a fund against the infirmities of age. So far as known, he is the only dog with a bank account in his own name.

Blm is owned by Mrs. Orel Elbert of Sheridan road and he earns his money by going about the premises and putting things in their proper places. He gets a dime for going to bed promptly, and if he whines or barks his pay is cut off. He carries baskets to and from the market and gets an extra quarter for watching the automobile. If he leaps down from the seat and plays with another dog he loses the quarter.

Once a week he takes his collection of quarters and dimes to the bank, stands in front of the receiving teller's window on his hind legs, gets his book back and trots home. His balance is $68 with no withdrawals.

He ran around to the Simpson street station with his find as fast as his little legs would carry him and turned the bank roll over to Lieutenant Evans, who is keeping it for the owner.

FIND COPY OF PATENT WASHINGTON GRANTED

Fourth License in History of Republic Was for New Method of Making Type.

Washington.—An authentic copy of the fourth patent issued by the United States government, the only facsimile of a patent granted in the early days of the American republic, has just been found by Commissioner of Patents Thomas E. Robertson. It was issued in 1791 and is in a good state of preservation. There are no copies of the first, second or third patents issued by the government.

When this document was issued there was no patent office. All inventions were approved by the President, countersigned by the secretary of state and the attorney general and delivered to the applicant personally by the secretary of state. The fourth patent, therefore, bears the signatures of George Washington, President; Thomas Jefferson, secretary of state, and Edmund Randolph, attorney general.

Francis Bailey of Philadelphia applied for and received this patent on January 31, 1791. It was on a new method of punches and matrices for making printing types. The patent reads as follows:

"To all to whom these presents shall come, Greetings:

"Whereas, Francis Bailey of the city of Philadelphia, in the state of Pennsylvania, printer, hath invented certain methods, not before known or used, for forming punches, by which to impress on the matrices for printing type, whether such types be for setters or devices, as well as to impress on any metal or other substance capable of receiving and retaining impressions, various marks which are difficult to be counterfeited, and the said invention appears to be useful and important; these are, therefore, in pursuance of the act entitled 'An act to promote the progress of useful arts,' to grant to the said Francis Bailey, his heirs, administrators and assigns, for the term of fourteen years, the sole and exclusive right and liberty of using and vending to others the said improvement, according to the true intent and meaning of the act aforesaid."

The grant was issued at the national capital, then located in Philadelphia.

Famed Malamute Dog Seems Destined to Go

Anchorage, Alaska.—The malamute dog, for many years the famed steed of the north, apparently is destined to go.

With the coming of railroads, dog teams were driven farther into the interior. And now the prevalence of deer herds and the growth of the market garden and the town lot garden have caused restrictions to be drawn around the malamute until he is coming to be classed a nuisance in the more settled parts of southern Alaska.

The malamute had his genesis in the wolves and wild dogs of the North. All fowls and quadrupeds were his common prey. But when, in more modern days, a malamute began pulling a reindeer and the live stock of farmers, he was treated as a wolf and hunted down.

Owing to the light demand for dogs it is difficult to procure pure bred specimens south of the Yukon, and the one-time aristocrat of the Arctic is becoming mixed with the blood of many mongrels that he has almost lost his identity.

SCHOOL PARADE

Floats in Pumpkin Show Parade Will Represent the Seasons

Preparations are now being made for putting on a parade worthy of our public schools on Friday, Pumpkin Show week.

Four floats will be placed representing the four seasons; summer, autumn, winter and spring.

Some years ago when "Old Everts" was still being used as a high school the public schools put on a parade that was stunning and there has been nothing to equal this turnout ever since. The Parochial school of St. Joseph's church participated and it made one of the most creditable parades ever shown by this school. It is expected this year that both the public and the parochial schools will make the memorable parade of the city's centenary year some fourteen years ago look like a sideshow compared with a circus. Every attention is being given the makeup of the parade and the showing will be worth coming miles to see.

It is not thought that the boards of education of the country's centralized schools can be prevailed upon to sanction a showing of their various schools this year and Pickaway township will be the lone school outside of the city represented in the parade.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Roy L. Wilson, son of Mrs. Virginia Wilson, of 221 North Washington street, this city, and Miss Virgie Mae Pittman, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pittman, of Ravenna, Ohio, were married Wednesday morning, September 3, at 6:30 o'clock by Rev. W. A. R. McPherson, pastor of the First Christian church of Ravenna, of which church both the bride and groom are members. Their only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hoover, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. The bride was dressed in white crepe-de-chine and carried pink tea roses. The full ring ceremony was used. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, immediately after which Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left upon a motor trip thru southern Ohio, returning to Ravenna Sunday evening. They will reside at 329 Cedar street. Mr. Wilson has been a resident of Ravenna the past three years, having first gone to that city as foreman painter for The Watts-Suhrbier Co., of Toledo, on the new high school building at Ravenna. Since the completion of the high school he has been employed in the varnishing department of the Buckeye Chair factory at Ravenna.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Griffith are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Esther Louise, to Mr. Carl H. Camp, of Dayton, on the sixth of August. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Carlisle in Covington, Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Camp are now at home in Dayton. The bride is a graduate of New Holland high school and is one of the community's most prominent young women. For three years she has been in Dayton, where she attended school and held a position in one of the large stores. The groom is known to many here, having visited in the Griffith home numerous times. Their many friends are extending felicitations to the happy young couple.—New Holland Leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Grimes and children entertained at dinner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Leland Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Taylor and daughter, Helen Jean, and son, Gardner Bryce, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dick and daughters, Dorothy and Evelyn, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Taylor and son, Teddy. Besides the relatives, Miss Margie Dillon, of Columbus was present. The complete family circle and guests enjoyed a sumptuous dinner at the pleasant country home, making it a most enjoyable dinner.—New Holland Leader.

Mr. Neal Settles and Miss Gladys Hatfield, of Lowmansville, Kentucky, were married at the home of the bride's parents Saturday, September 13. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Griffith. The young couple will make their home with the groom's mother, Mrs. Ida Settles, on Walnut street.

Mother of Thousands.

The destruction wrought on all but the hardest wood by the white ant, or termite, is not surprising when a few facts are known of its prolific character. A nest, some six feet in height, was found in the tropics, and about one foot below the level of the ground was a conical mound of hard earth. Inside this dwelt the queen mother. After careful observation she was found to lay 3,120 eggs in an hour. On account of her great size she was unable to leave her cell, her only function being to lay eggs.

AMUSEMENTS

After seeing the William de Mille production of "Icebound" at the Met theater yesterday, we'll take back all the mean things said about screen adaptations of popular stage plays.

Clafra Beranger has turned out an exceptionally smooth-running continuity, and under the master direction of de Mille, "Icebound" comes to us one of the most humanly appealing and entertaining romantic dramas of this, or any season.

"Icebound" which was awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best American drama during the season 1923, is a story of New England. Lois Wilson and Richard Dix are featured. Dix has the role of Ben Jordan who, while drinking with some neighbor's boys in their barn, sets fire to the place and runs away to escape arrest, returning the night his old mother dies.

Mrs. Jordan leaves the entire family to Jane Crosby (Lois Wilson), her ward. Jane offers to put up the money to keep Ben out of jail if he will but settle down and work out the farm for her. He does this, and the two gradually fall in love until Ben's flapper cousin, Nettie, (Vera Reynolds) almost spoils things by stealing a pretty new dress Jane has made to please Ben. Ben falls for the girl's vamping just as Jane comes in. Why say more? You'll like "Icebound," everyone does.

If they awarded a Pulitzer prize for the best American screen drama, this would be our choice.

It's a Paramount.

Besides Miss Reynolds, those who appear in support of the principal players are Helen Dubois, Edna May Oliver, who has the same role she did in the stage production; Mary Foy, Little Joseph Depew, Ethel Wales, Alice Chapin, John Daly Murphy and Frank Shannon.

DEATH OF ARTHUR MINER.

Arthur Miner died at his home near Kingston at noon Thursday age 31 years. His death was due to cancer.

The deceased is survived by his wife and five sons. Mr. Miner married Miss Thelma Merriman, of this city.

The funeral services will be held at the Kingston M. E. church Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. Interment in the Kingston cemetery.

ROTARY CLUB

Breaks Bread With Domestic Science Full Expression is Most Desirable in This Class at High School.

One of the most interesting and pleasant sessions of the Rotary club was held Thursday noon when a luncheon was served in the high school building by the domestic science class under the direction of the instructor, Miss Helen Skeele.

A most appetizing meal was furnished and it was thoroly enjoyed by Superintendent Eagleson, the high school faculty, the board of education and the Rotarians. Short talks were made by Dr. D. V. Courtright on behalf of the board of education and by Professor Thacker of the high school faculty.

After the luncheon members of the club went about the building and were most favorably impressed with the quarters and equipment of our schools and with the quality of the work being done by the splendid corps of teachers.

The Kingly Eagle.

Eagles have been known to attack full-grown sheep and even stags; but the stories of their carrying off children should be taken with a grain of salt, for, like nearly all the creatures of the wild, the eagle will attack man only in self-defense. He is the unquestioned king of birds. There are many larger and more powerful than he, but none of them has the courage, the swiftness or the majestic carriage of the eagle. Ever since man was man the eagle has appealed to him as a creature of romance. Legends and fables about him abound in all languages. All the world over you will find the eagle as the symbol of nobility. The Indian chief wears a head-dress of eagle's feathers as a mark of his high position.

First Electric Lighted City.

Aurora, Ill., was the first city in the world to have its streets lighted by electricity, that method of illumination having been installed there in 1881.

Crabbe's Ruling.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Attorney General Crabbe ruled that county boards of education have authority in law to certify the three-mill school levy in districts where the district boards of education have either neglected or refused to do so, thereby preventing the schools from obtaining enough revenue to operate for the full 32-week term. The opinion was handed down to Vernon M. Riegel, state director of education, after the latter had requested a ruling on a case of this nature which had risen in Vinton county.

HILL PLEAS D

Indictment, He Holds, Means Test of the Volstead Act.

Baltimore, Sept. 26.—When he learned he had been indicted by a federal grand jury on counts for violation of the Volstead law, Congressman John Philip Hill declared he was "delighted." The indictment followed Hill's cider party of Saturday night, at which he treated nearly 1,500 guests with 2.75 per cent cider of his own manufacture. "At least I have forced action," the congressman exulted, "and we shall now get decisions on section 29 of the Volstead act, which I have been demanding for more than two years." Hill claims 75 per cent beer and cider are not intoxicating and hopes he will be tried soon so that he can prove it.

Troops to Guard Court Room.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 26.—Adjutant General Carlos Black has assigned an officer and 16 men from Company I of Salem, Ill., national guard, for duty at Herrin, Williamson county, during the trials growing out of the recent riots there. The Carbondale troops now on duty in Williamson county are forced to divide their time between Marion and Herrin and the additional men will be used to guard the courtroom during the trials.

Pittsburgh Out of It.

New York, Sept. 26.—Three home run drives by Meusel, Nehf and Carey featured the Giant-Pirate game yesterday. Carey's smash came in the ninth with two on base. New York's victory destroyed the chance of Pittsburgh in the senate race.

HERE AND THERE

An airplane carrying an unknown number of persons fell in the sea and disappeared off Black Rock light-house, Cohasset, Mass.

Peter Vroholina, 28, confessed to attacking, killing and burying Anna Tomisch, 9-year-old daughter of an Italian merchant at Gary, Ind.

Cleveland was selected as the next meeting place of the American Society for Steel Treating. William S. Biddle of Cleveland was elected president.

Luther A. Brower, former publisher of the Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Republican, has announced his independent candidacy for United States senator.

An alleged confession of the 18-year-old bride of R. E. Lee, 29, of Pendleton, Ind., implicates him in the murder last July of Abner Peck, an Indianapolis grocer.

National Klanvocation of the Ku Klux Klan will be held at Kansas City Sept. 22 to 25.

EVERYBODY VOTE.

Important Election.

Calvin Coolidge will be the next president of the United States if the people of the United States exercise to the full their right of citizenship and express by ballot their sentiment and their judgment. It is only by a small vote in the nation on election day due to indifference of American citizens that there can be any other result. This prediction is made from a study of reports received from all sections of the country; reports not from politicians but from individuals in every walk of life and from newspapers, the editors of which have made a careful survey of conditions. This composite opinion represents the views of men and women in all walks of life, farmers, mechanics, bricklayers, dairymen, stock-growers, railroad men, lawyers, storekeepers, school teachers, plasterers, carpenters, bankers, plumbers, garagemen, editors, clerks, barbers, automobile dealers, members of women's organizations and many others too numerous to mention.

One of the strong reasons for the success of the president at the coming election is the attitude of the women of the nation, they believe in Coolidge, they know that he is honest and will help them safeguard the home, they don't want to see a change that would, without doubt, reduce wages and deprive their children of a chance to advance in the world. They are for Coolidge because he is familiar with their problems. He stands for the honest and clean things of life.

Labor realizes that its chance for high wages is far better under Coolidge than any other candidate. The railroad men who favored McAdoo are coming over every day to Coolidge, for they realize that from him they will get a square deal.

The farmers have not been fooled by LaFollette platform, they remember, as do the producers of dairy products, that the third party candidate, LaFollette, could have secured for them greater protection if he had made the effort and had been a constant attendant of the sessions of the committee, his vote might have blocked the free traders. The dairymen do not agree with LaFollette in his "reduce the tariff" policy on many things that are produced in this country, neither are the stockmen going to enlist under the banner of the man from Wisconsin. The fairy tales that sound like some of the bed-time stories one hears on the radio, that have been sent to the farmer have not been accepted as the truth by the men who till the soil, they have seen thru the flimsy arguments and misleading statements that have been sent out by free traders and low tariff supporters who do not dare come out with a state ment saying that free trade or a low tariff would help the farmer, these spellbinders when asked if a low tariff would cause our prices to compare with the prices of the poor peasant in Europe generally change the conversation.

A nation wide movement is on foot to get out the vote this year, all classes of people are interested in having the verdict made square and clean cut and thousands who have never before voted for a Republican president will, this fall register their votes in favor of the principles of liberty and justice as against the teachings of the Soviet. As one paper in Wyoming says, "A good bit is to be gained by studying the LaFollette platform. In it will be at the very vitals of this country. In it will be discovered many glyptocntr some way, not open to public view, LaFollette is in close touch with alien forces engaged in boring from within for control of this country. And who knows the purposes for this desire for control? It cannot be honest or it would be open and above board. Dishonest purposes are those that are concealed and surrounded by mystery.

General Dawes said in a recent speech, referring to LaFollette's platform, "Does he think that we are a race of fools?"

High wages, good times generally and a reduction of taxes and the strictest economy in government expenditures are matters that the voters are going to carefully consider when they go to the polls in November. No, we are not a race of fools.

Long-Felt Want.

To prevent a cow switching her tail against a person milking her there has been patented a clamp attached to a steel spring to be twined around one leg.

CHURCH MARKET.

A WORD TO THE MAN

WHO WORKS.

When business and work have been shattered, And smashed to the very last root, When all the banks have been plundered, And everyone's shared in the loot. We shall pause—when our last cent is squandered— And say, with a sad, hungry sob; "We were lured by the third party system— Now, I wonder who'll give us a job?" —Charles E. Hood.

Celtic Isle.

The smallest dependency of France is the Ile d'Hoedle, situated at the east of Belle Isle. Its population is 238. The people do not speak French, but Celtic. Fishing is the principal industry, and all the inhabitants are provided with food at an inn managed by the women. The town has no streets. The houses are mostly of mud.

Lava Warm After Thirty Years.

Newly ejected lava from Vesuvius has been tested and found to be at a temperature of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit. On the volcano's slopes lavas from various outbursts are definitely isolated, and even now lava thrown out 30 years ago is quite warm.

Wisdom of Solomon.

In the proverbs of Solomon there is this bit of wisdom: "Though thou shouldst bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him." More than two thousand years of world experience sustains the accuracy of the Biblical proverb. Braying the fool in a mortar may not cure him, but it is sometimes the only way of ridding the community of pernicious fools intent upon spreading the contagion of their own folly.

Children of Great Men.

Shakespeare had children from whom the world never heard. So it was with Dickens. None of his children came anywhere near his standard. Owen Meredith was a mediocre writer as compared with his father, Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton. Lytton, while a very voluminous writer, was also strong and fine at all times. Alexander Dumas fils could not at any time compare with Dumas the elder. Nathaniel Hawthorne was head and shoulders above his son, Julian, in the power to produce books worth while.

REPUBLICAN GUNS BATTER "BOBISM"

Chairman Butler Calls on Americans to Save Their Constitution.

Heavy guns of the Republican national campaigners were turned on Senator LaFollette and his candidacy during the past week, with telling effect. Following up General Dawes' bold invasion of LaFollette territory and his emphatic speech in Milwaukee, National Chairman Butler issued a statement in which he coined the new Republican slogan, "Save the Constitution." He declared the "Socialist-Third party," under the leadership of LaFollette, has thrust upon the nation a new doctrine which would overthrow "the gospel of our national existence."

Mr. Butler picked for the basis of his statement the plank in the LaFollette platform which would give congress authority to override decisions by the Supreme court.

"If power under the Socialist-Third party program, is given congress to annul the Constitution in any particular that same power extends to the document in its entirety," he declared.

One Vital Issue.

Chairman Butler is developing the pronouncements of the Republican vice presidential nominee, Charles G. Dawes. He sees in this campaign the vital issue of keeping the American Constitution inviolate from the menace of radicalism. That is the issue as the G. O. P. chieftain sees it. John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee, is characterized as "a distinguished constitutional lawyer," but he has been eliminated from the contest by a combination of circumstances "unusual in our political life," Mr. Butler says.

"I am not discovering an issue," he says. "I am proclaiming one." His statement says:

"The country at large, irrespective of parties, has an issue which demands the attention of all. It is to save the Constitution."

"The fundamental issues which have divided the two major parties in the past still exist, but a greater one has arisen. It is no longer merely a question of issues between two parties. The life of our republic is at stake."

"The Socialist-Third party under the leadership of Senator LaFollette has thrust upon us a doctrine which calls for immediate action if we would save the Constitution. The struggle is not over methods of government, but the abolition of government."

"Debunking Senator LaFollette."

Under the caption "Debunking Senator LaFollette" the Chicago Tribune prints the following editorial:

William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, asks Senator LaFollette to furnish a bill of particulars. The senator says the system is improving the American people and he describes an anti-social organization which must have headquarters, engineers, plans, blueprints, and means of proceeding against the great masses.

He does not say it has headquarters and all the rest of it, but it could not operate as he says it does until it was highly organized, with a responsive army of servants and the definite will to wreck the welfare of the country for its own gain.

Mr. LaFollette has not had the gift of specification. It has been the gift of generalization and Mr. Butler wants to know what a good many others of us would like to know. What specifically does the system do by calculated purpose and what shall be done by an impoverished people to stop it?

Part of Mr. LaFollette's system is the coal combination. Mr. Butler says that the price of bituminous coal is lower today than it has been since 1916, the wages are 100 per cent higher, and no group controls more than 5 per cent of the output. Mr. LaFollette means the sugar monopoly. The domestic sugar growers are protected by a tariff. The southern cane growers are outside his view of economics and politics, but are the beet sugar growers? Does he mean to take the tariff off to help them? If so, why not tell his agricultural following that he intends to do it?

LaFollette says oil is a part of the system. Mr. Butler says that competition has resulted in a great overproduction and lowering of prices. Certainly the government has made its one great effort to break up the oil combinations.

LaFollette says the railroads are in the system. Butler says that the railroads in the last four years have not earned more than 1 1/2 per cent on their physical valuation and the level of wages is 90 per cent higher than in the prewar period.

LaFollette says the packers are in the system. Three of the principal packers of the United States have been going through financial reorganization because of losses and the industry is trying to keep from going broke.

LaFollette says the tariff is the parent of evils. What tariff will he take off—the tariff which keeps the goods of low-priced European labor from coming in or the tariff which keeps American field products free from the competition of the European peasant? Will he win California by saying that the California nuts and lemons shall be subjected to the competition of South America and Italy?

Tell it to California. Tell the sugar beet growers that they are not benefited. Tell the New England farmer that he does not need a wall against Canadian hay. Tell the Minnesota farmer that the wall against Canadian wheat does him no good. Maybe it does him no good, but Minnesota has thought it did or it would not be in the schedule. Tell the wool grower that he does not need protection. Maybe he doesn't, but he seems to like it. We'll welcome many specifications from Mr. LaFollette.

This is a garden and it has its garden walls and its two bulldogs. The wall is built of the tariff and immigration restriction. The bulldogs are the army and navy. The wall and its guardians are needed by any nation which wants to protect what is peculiarly its own. Otherwise the other fellow on the outside will get the fruits.

MARKET REPORTS

Ohio State University Will Give Service to Producers by Radio.

Market reports will be supplied to the livestock producers of Ohio three times daily by radio from now on, the Ohio State University announces, instead of the once-a-day service given until recently by Station WEAQ at Columbus.

It is to meet the demand for frequent and complete market reports that the university makes this change, according to C. M. Hammans, extension specialist in marketing. This is the daily program, in effect more or less experimentally since August 25:

At 9 a. m. (Eastern Standard time), estimated receipts and holdovers for Chicago, National Stock yards, Kansas City, Omaha, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Buffalo and a flash of Chicago's opening market.

At 11 a. m., receipts and opening market for all of the above named markets with the exception of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Buffalo.

At 1:30 p. m., a summary of the closing markets reported at 11 o'clock also timely announcements and agriograms of special interest to Ohio farmers.

These reports are taken from a leased government wire thru the cooperation of the Columbus office of the United States Bureau of markets. Comments on this service are sought by the university officials in charge.

When Her Anger Had Subsided

By HUGHES MEARNES

(© by Doubleday, Page & Co.)

MRS. LASELLI was in a contrite mood. She had just come from a meeting of the Parents' association of the Washington high school where she had been led into a public confession. The principal had introduced a psychologist to the meeting, a fine voiced, magnetic gentleman, who would confer with parents and talk with them about youth and all the new ways of learning. He had asked questions in the most intimate of persuasive tones; and almost before Mrs. Laselli had been aware of it, she found herself speaking out before all the American mothers and telling how she had just scolded her child and had sent her to bed for saying a coarse word.

And now she knew that she should not have done that. "You may get seeming obedience," the psychologist had told her sympathetically, "but your child is not obeying with her mind. Deep within her is a storm of rebellion; it will rage—deep within her—and when it breaks forth later, as it is sure to do, you may wish you had reasoned with her, really persuaded her, and so have won her to you." And the picture he painted of the possible evil consequences of her harsh treatment was very terrifying.

But there were ways of making amends, he pointed out; and Mrs. Laselli was hurrying home to meet her daughter, Beatrice, and save her from herself.

"Where you been all day so late when you have got from school early, hey?" Mrs. Laselli began in the old threatening tones, but caught herself instantly and laughed, a rather startling laugh, and added: "Out wit' dose Dutch Lasher kids, huh? Havin' a good time, huh? Dat's a' right, Beatrice. Have a good time when you're young. You was out wit' de Lasher kids, huh?"

Beatrice nodded. The mother did not notice the troubled, watchful face. Mrs. Laselli sat down and beamed at her daughter. Then she launched into the speech of reconciliation. She had been all wrong to scold her and send her to bed for saying a bad word. Young American kids were different. In the old country they beat them and then what?—all the kids cut out from home at the first chance and let the old mothers and fathers take care of themselves. Or they got locked up or went to the bad. Now she wasn't going to be that way any more; Mrs. Laselli was going to be kind.

"You have a good time, yes, wit' dose Dutch Lasher kids, huh, Beatrice?" The mother smiled radiantly. "Oh, mother!" Beatrice burst suddenly into weeping and cast herself on her knees and buried her head in the capacious lap. "I wasn't out with the fashers."

"What?" The mother bristled suspiciously. "Den w'at you lie to me for, hey?"

But Beatrice did not hear the question. She was sobbing, but some of it was for joy that her mother would at last understand. "It was Joe," she said at last, raising a troubled wet face.

"Joe?" Mrs. Laselli shrilled the name. "Dat good-for-not'in' truck driver! Joe?"

"Yes," Beatrice went on eagerly, hungry for the chance to confess; "I have been meeting him after school. Nothing wrong, you understand, mother. Just meeting and standing and talking, him joshing me and me having fun, you know. . . . And always he has been wanting me to walk out in the park, and I was afraid. . . . Didn't know why, but I was. And he kept at me, called me cowardly-cat. And I said I wasn't a cowardly-cat. And he dared me. And so today I went. And oh, mother," she buried her face again, "he grabbed me and tried to kiss me, and I beat his face with my hands—I was afraid to scream for fear someone would see me and tell—and I broke away and ran and ran—it was dark—until I got home and I could hardly get up the steps and I was so scared. And, oh, mother, I wasn't going to tell you, but—"

Beatrice found herself on the floor with the violent shove that Mrs. Laselli had put into her blazing indignation. From there she looked up in dazed surprise. Mrs. Laselli was creaking at her.

"You go out wit' dat Joe, hey! And disgrace yourself wit' huggin' an' kissin' an' all dat in de park, hey! W'at kind o' daughter is it you're bein', hey? In de park! An' wit' dat good-for-not'in', Joe! Up to your room wit' you, right off quick, before I take a stick an' beat you so you never go out wit' boys again! Up, I say! To bed you go, and stay, you low, good-for-not'in' until I say you get out again! . . . Out o' here quick before I beat your head for you!"

And late that night, when the fires of anger had subsided, Mrs. Laselli thought suddenly of the soft voice of the psychologist; she saw his thoughtful eyes looking so kindly into hers; and a terrible fear smote her so that her knees shook and she had to sit abruptly down.

After a moment she rose, steadied herself with an effort, went out into the hall and listened. There came no sound from upstairs, but the light was burning fiercely in Beatrice's room. Mrs. Laselli hurried up the stairs as if with fear that she might be too late.
